WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

Beautiful piece of history! They have an awesome walking tour of three miles that covers main houses and buildings. Google

Nostalgia to the fullest. The guides are quite knowledgeable, the houses are well maintained and have ample historical furniture. Worth a visit to know about Connecticut history. Yelp

There is so much history here! Allow 90 minutes to tour. I would recommend for those who are truly interested in history of the area, early settlers, and founding fathers. Trip Advisor

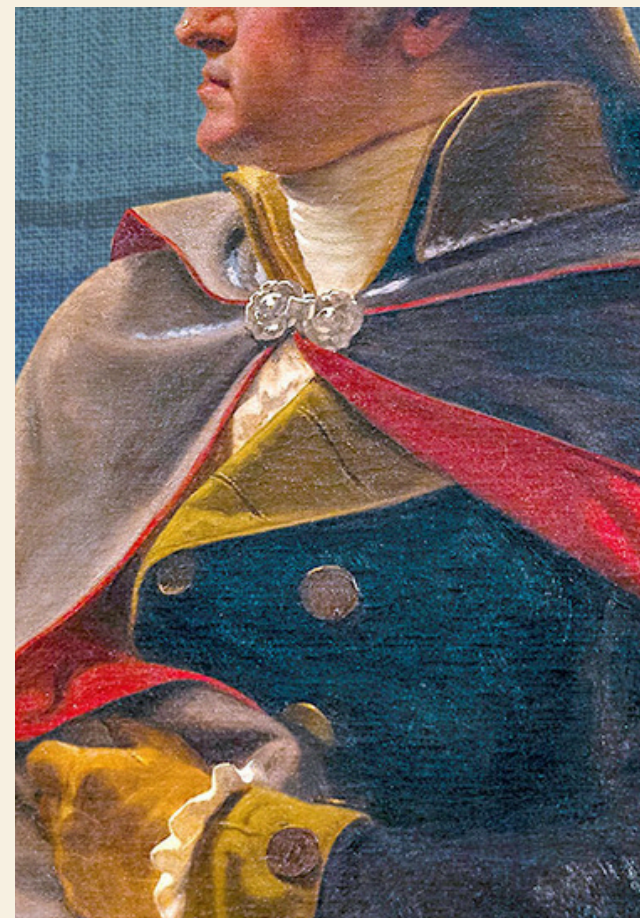

I can't believe that George Washington walked in the exact same house that I looked in! Student

ABOUT THE MUSEUM

INSPIRE ♦ EDUCATE ♦ PRESERVE

Nestled in the heart of Connecticut's largest historic district, the Webb Deane Stevens Museum's three historic houses tell important stories of national and statewide significance.

The Joseph Webb House (National Historic Landmark) served as George Washington's headquarters in May 1781, where he met with French commander Comte de Rochambeau to plan what became the Yorktown Campaign. The Silas Deane House (National Historic Landmark) was home to our nation's first diplomat, whose efforts led France to become the first country to recognize the United States as an independent nation. The Isaac Stevens House (Wethersfield Historic Registry) provides a remarkable portrait of a successful mercantile Connecticut River Valley family. The Museum's 8-acre campus, including the historic Webb Barn and Colonial Revival Garden, serves as a place for community gatherings, recreation, and cultural enrichment.

The Museum has been owned by The National Society of The Colonial Dames of America in The State of Connecticut (NSCDA-CT) since 1919.

The Webb Deane Stevens Museum is accredited by the American Alliance of Museums.
